

Safety at Workplace and the Employees' Responsibility

Effective as of: 03.26.2024

American University of Armenia

Policy for Publication

Policy Number: HUMR20140012

The AUA strives to create a safe working environment in order to eliminate or reduce conditions, which may result in personal injury or property loss to staff, faculty, students and visitors.

AUA's Employees are responsible for the care of all materials and equipment used during their work. Thus, Employees are expected to exercise care and due caution to avoid any misuse or abuse of equipment. All employees must read and follow safety instructions.

At all times, Employees should call on the University IT department for the malfunction of computers or printers and call on the appropriate department at AUA or administration when other materials or equipment need repair. At all times, Employees are to be mindful not to expose any equipment or premises to safety hazards.

Employees are expected to exercise care and precaution not to expose themselves to safety hazards while performing their duties at AUA. Employees must seek assistance when the performance of any task can potentially expose them to risks.
